I. General guidelines

Q1: What is the prescribed period to submit a voluntary separation or a resignation?

A1: Employee should serve a written notice on resignation at least one (1) month in advance or 30 days prior separation effective date (SED) as stated in Article 300 of Labor Code of the Philippines and in Policy 0050.

Q2: Where should separation request be submitted?

A2: Effective November 29, 2022, resignation letter must be created and submitted in MyExit. Clearance processing will not begin until a separation entry is logged in MyExit. Resignation letter created in PDF or other application will not be accepted. This new way of submitting a resignation letter is referred to as "Digital document" and follows legal guidelines for acceptable documents.

Q3. Why do Accenture have hold pay process?

A4: Last payroll is usually on hold for a resigning employee in relation to the clearances and accountabilities that are being validated. Hold pay and Final pay, as applicable, will mitigate potential financial accountabilities on the resigning employee, particularly if there are outstanding financial obligations or assets yet to be returned to the employer.

Q4. How is the employee's salary affected by the Separation Effective Date?

A3: For the purpose of reconciling accountabilities, the resigning employee's payroll will be put on hold depending on the SED (Separation Effective Date) or Last Day + 1.

Hold Pay Guidelines:

SED (Separation Effective Date)	Salary Hold Effective Date	Illustration
Day 1 to 12	30th pay period	SED: Sept 1 Salary Hold Effective date: August 30
Day 13 to 27	15th pay period	SED: Sept 13 Salary Hold Effective date: Sept 15
Day 28 to 31	30th pay period	SED: Sept 28 Salary Hold Effective date: Sept 30

II. Digital resignation

Q1: What is a digital document?

A1: The term "electronic" or "digital document" refers to documents that were originally electronic in nature. Your resignation letter, as a digital document, will contain the following:

- "digital signature" this is your signature, whether your Full legal name or a distinctive mark, authenticating your letter
- "digital key", a unique identifier attached or associated with the letter you have submitted.

Q2: Do I need to create another resignation letter in MyExit if I submitted my resignation letter or email to my People lead prior November 29, 2022?

A2: Yes. If you have not logged a MyExit entry, you will need to create a resignation letter in MyExit.

Q3: Can I submit my PDF or a soft copy of my resignation as I do not want to re-create resignation letter in MyExit?

A3: No. All resignations must be triggered via MyExit digital document. Until your resignation is logged, Exit clearance will not begin.

Q4: I am unable to submit a separation request. Can I ask Exit team or my HR Partner to log the request on my behalf?

A4: No. Please note that all voluntary separations must be logged by the employee themselves. If you are encountering technical issue, send a screenshot of your error to ExitManagementQuery ExitManagementQuery@accenture.com.

Q5: Can I access MyExit via mobile?

A5: Yes. MyExit can be accessed on mobile devices. Make sure to use Accenture credentials and the multi-factor authentication for log-in

III. Submitting a resignation letter- digital document

Q1: What are the important details I need to include in my digital resignation letter?

A1: Include the following:

- Official last date of employment: this is the last day of employment with Accenture. Regardless if weekday or weekend, this is the last day where you are entitled to Accenture benefits.
- Separation effective date (SED): refers to the day after the last day of employment and the employment is officially terminated by you. This is an auto populated field in MyExit based on your chosen official last date of employment + 1 day.
- Reason for leaving (RFL)- after creating your letter, you will be asked to provide your reason for leaving. You may hover to the guide available in MyExit for you to choose an accurate RFL. This information will be helpful for Human Resources to understand the rationale for your resignation
- People Lead- by default, this field is auto populated based on your People Lead information from Workday. In case you need to update, ensure to indicate your People lead or Project Manager. This should be above your current Management level and ideally the person you are reporting to.

Q2: I have successfully submitted my separation request. Anything else I need to do?

A2: At this point, you are encouraged to:

- Work with your People Lead to ensure timely completion of your Exit checklist
- Attend an Exit interview- Employee Connect team from Human Resource Services (HRS ECS) will contact you 2 to 3 days after you have logged your separation request. We encourage you to attend the interview
- Start with your Exit checklist found in Exit Guidelines menu in MyExit Tool. Be mindful of the deadlines of each task you need to complete prior your Official last date of employment especially in complying to the deadlines of Time & Expense and Asset accountabilities. Any delay on your part will impact Accenture's ability to release your Final pay timely.

Q3: I'd like to edit my official last date of employment. Can I still do this?

A3: Yes, provided that the initial SED is not yet in effect. To update last date of employment, go to MyExit, click Raise Separation Request then Edit Request. Previous separation request will appear. Trigger the request by clicking Submit button and then you will be asked to upload any artifact/acknowledgement from your People Lead. Approval process takes within 24 to 48 hours. Once approved, Official last date of employment field will get enabled for you to update the said field then resubmit the resignation letter reflecting the new last date of employment.

Q4: After talking to my People lead, I have decided to retract my resignation. Where should I do this?

A4: Go to MyExit and click edit. An email approval will be routed to your People Lead. At this point, People Lead must approve your request for retraction as this is a discretion from Accenture. You will receive further notifications on the status of your request. Note that retraction is legally permissible only until official last date of employment. To avoid operational issues, it must be initiated at least three (3) business days from your supposed last official last date of employment.

Q5: I submitted my separation request less than 1 month/ 30 days from separation effective date. Will there be an issue on my final pay and clearance?

A5: As per Article 300 of the Labor code, a written notice of separation must be submitted at least one (1) month prior last date of employment. Any separation less than this period is considered abrupt. When submitting an abrupt resignation, you acknowledge that this will impact the organization's ability to release your final pay within thirty (30) days from your official last date of employment.

Q6: The leaver requested a change in his/her separation entry because the Resignation Letter had some incorrect information. What should I do?

A6: Prior the submission of MyExit entry, you need to ensure that all details/information are correct. If you need to update separation details, you need to trigger SED change request in MyExit to initial updating of the digital resignation letter. This change request will go to your People Lead's approval.

Q7: What happens to an employee's final pay if the separation effective date (SED) is changed one or multiple times?

A7: For employees whose pay was placed on hold due to a logged separation, reinstatement of payroll depends on the timing of the approved SED change. For example, if the SED change is approved after the internal payroll cut-off, the held pay will not be reinstated and will instead be included in the final paycheck.

Scenario	MyExit Logged Date	Original SED	SED change request date	New SED change	SED Change Approval Date	Payroll Cut Off for pay reinstatement	Hold Pay Period	Remarks
SED changes before payroll deadline	12/1/2024	1/1/2025	12/8/2024	1/15/2025	12/11/2024	12/12/2024	12/31/2024	SED change and reinstatement will happen and will be removed from 12/31 hold pay
SED changes after payroll deadline					12/15/2024			Leaver's final pay for December 31 will be put on hold. Access will be reinstated, and the new SED will follow the guidelines outlined in the hold pay process.

Q8: The separation process in Accenture Philippines requires a creation and submission of digitized Resignation letter via MyExit Tool, but the exiting employee did comply. What will happen?

A8: Accenture Philippines will only accept and process resignations that are created and submitted in MyExit Tool as stipulated in Policy 050 – Employee Separations. Resignations submitted outside MyExit Tool (e.g., letters drafted via PDF or via email) will not be processed and accepted. Failure to comply with this requirement may lead to an absconding case.

Q9: What happens if the resignation date submitted by the employee does not comply with the 30day notice period required by law?

A9: The 30-day notice period required by law as stipulated in Article 300 of Labor Code of the Philippines and in Policy 0050 is for the benefit of both the employee and the employer. This will ensure the exiting employee has ample time to complete the Exit clearance and to be able to warrant timely final pay release.

In addition, the 30-day notice period will help business continuity by allowing the organization to look for backfill as well as an opportunity to do Knowledge Transfers for the purpose of avoiding business disruptions. That said, the employer has the prerogative to either shorten or completely waive the notice period.

While the employer cannot prevent the employee from resigning and/or the immediate resignation is not accepted, the 30-day notice period begins to run from the date the resignation letter is tendered. However, the employer may charge the employee for actual damages it incurred due to the abrupt resignation via Final Pay deduction.

Q10: Can employees resign with today´s effective date?

A10: No. MyExit Tool will not allow past dated resignation. This means, MyExit tool has a validation allowing leavers to log separation with effective date as future dated. Pop-up messages and reminders are also in place especially if Separation Effective Date (SED) is less than 30 days from the date of logging.

Q11: Can employees resign with effective date on Saturday/Sunday?

A11: Leaver has the option to select Separation Effective Date (SED) that falls on a weekend provided that exiting employee is adhering to the 30day notice period as required by law and that all accountabilities are completed prior the last day of employment.

On the other hand, the "Raise Separation Request" functionality is disabled on weekends to ensure timeliness of clearance processing. Hence, abrupt resignation will not be allowed by the tool. However, MyExit may be accessed anytime to view existing separation requests.

Q11. If my final pay from Accenture and my SPF benefit from the bank are released in different calendar years (e.g., final pay on December 31, 2025, and SPF on January 15, 2026), how will this affect my BIR Form 2316 and tax filing?

A11. You will receive separate BIR Form 2316 documents because the payments were released in different calendar years and, therefore, cannot be consolidated into a single taxable year.

- CY 2025 BIR Form 2316 (Accenture): This will reflect only your final pay and salary income from Accenture.
- CY 2026 BIR Form 2316 (Bank): This will reflect only your SPF benefit.

For tax purposes, you are responsible for declaring the SPF income in your Annual Income Tax Return for the year in which it was received (2026 in this example).

Accenture will not be held liable for any consequences resulting from the failure to report this income. You are strongly encouraged to consult your personal accountant or tax advisor to ensure accurate tax filing and full compliance with applicable tax regulations.
